November 2018

Dear Parents and Families,

Another month has come and gone and now we are enjoying that most glorious time of year known as “Autumn,” “Fall,” or to some, “I think that bears really know what they’re doing with that hibernation thing.”

I’m looking forward to connecting with families during conferences, which are fast approaching. (November 12 and 13, 3:30-7pm) It’s important to maintain open lines of communication in order to foster an effective learning environment for your children. Thank you for taking the time to come and discuss your child’s progress.

In our religious instruction, we continue to discuss God’s beautiful creation, our responsibility to respect and protect it, as well as the importance of showing respect to each other as the people of God.

We’ve been busy with English, Grammar and Reading Comprehension in our Language Arts curriculum in addition to our Daily 5 routines, and the students have been working hard to meet their AR reading goals.

As for Math, we’re well into Unit 2, laying the foundation for more complex mathematical processes, and Social Studies and Science instruction have been coming along nicely as well.

As a reminder, please try to take the time to read to and with your child. I know this can be a challenge sometimes, but even five minutes here and there makes a big difference in the long-term academic success of your child.

Have a great month!
