Dear Parents

As we start a new year we'll also be starting a new unit in Math and Reading. Homework has been coming back and the kids are doing really well with it too. Just a reminder to keep sending snow gear and shoes so they are able to walk, run and crawl when they need to.

What We're Learning

Math: Our new unit talks about place value, equal to, less than, more than and we start two digit addition.

Social Studies: We'll be talking about how different stories are told different ways around the world but they tell us the same lessons.

Language: This unit looks into different types of letter blends and focuses on different types of nouns.

Reading: This month we start a new unit and will learn about Fables and Folktales. Along with what Art is and can be.

Writing: Since so many students were gone during the time to write our last book, we're going to try and write one this month. They did awesome with a simple letter so I'm sure they can do a book too.
